ORDER:

In the letters read above, the Engineer-in-Chief (R&B) Roads, Hyderabad, has stated that the Ayodyalanka is an island situated between right & left side flood banks of Vasista branch of river Godavari. This island is nearer to E.G District flood bank even though it belongs to West Godavari District . About 1.0Km width of water course on W.G. District side and 0.45 Km width of water course on E.G. District side encircle this island. About 4,000 people are living in this island. More than 90% of people of this island used to cross the Vasistabbranch ofriver on E.G. District side by country boats for their day to day activities like marketing, education and medical purposes. Only few people are used to cross the river on W.G. District side to reach mandal head quarter Achanta.

2. He has also stated that the three ferries are being operated at three places of this island i.e., (i) Marrimoola(hamlet of Ayodyalanka) to Nakkidilanka (ii) Ayodyalanka to Putchalalanka (iii)AyodhyalankaPanchayat to Ravilanka along the Ayodhyalanka side bank which is about 3kms long. These three ferries are serving the people of Ayodhyalanka to transport men and materials to nearest towns Gannavaram, Tatipaka andRazole in East Godavari District.

3. He has further stated that, the above three ferries are not being operated during night time and also in flood season. During peak flood season, i.e., in the months of August, September, every year , connection with this island from both East Godavari side and West Godavari side is lost many times. During floods/disasters the district Administration is not able to supply food, material and medicines to the people of Ayodhyalanka. Further the district Administration is not able to evenevacuate people of Ayodhyalanka during floods to safer places due to lack of communication facilities.

4. Further, as such the people of this island are facing much inconvenience to travel and transport the agricultural products like coconut, banana and vegetables by using country boats during normal times and facing difficulties to move to safer places during cyclones and floods and also to go to hospitals during emergencies.

5. In view of the above situation it is highly essential to construct a bridge across Vasista branch of river Godavari betweenAyodyalanka and Putchalanka to facilitate the villagers to avail the existing educational, medical facilities East Godavari District to transport and market their paddy to nearest commercial centers and also to move to safer places during floods.
